¶13. The Maoist chief of Information and Publication Section of the eastern district of Sunsari on August 7 informed the media persons about a plan to launch a major attack in one of the headquarters of the hilly districts of the eastern region of Nepal within a month. The Maoist leader also claimed that the impending attack would be a next big hit after the Bhojpur incident, which took place on March 2. The Maoist leader also informed the media people of forming a district people's government in foreseeable future, and that central level leaders have already arrived in Sunsari District.

ARMY RAIDS MAOISTS' HIDEOUTS IN ACHHAM

¶14. The Royal Nepal Army (RNA) launched raids in a remote mountainous district of Achham, about 600 kilometers west of Kathmandu, on August 10 and 11. Colonel Yagya Bahadur Rajaure of the RNA's Western Division Headquarters in Nepalganj told the reporters that the army received information that top rebel leaders were gathering in the district for a rally. Hundreds of RNA troops raided Kamal

Bazaar and Binayak area of Achham District. The RNA decided to go on the offensive against the Maoists after learning about Maoists using ultra modern weapons at Binayak, and that thousands of rebels had gathered there for a big assembly planned for August 11. A senior RNA official told The Rising Nepal, a state-run newspaper, on August 11 that no clash had taken place so far and the people were safe.

MAOIST STUDENT LEADER TALKS OF DECISIVE WAR

15. President of All Nepal National Independent Students' Union-Revolutionary (ANNISU-R), Lekhnath Neupane, said in a press conference in the central district of Makwanpur that if the government does not come to talks without conditions accepting the demands of the insurgents, then they would wage a final battle against the government and the RNA. Neupane added that they were setting up a brigade to reinforce the activities in the "Ring Area" surrounding Kathmandu Valley.

16. The press statement issued by the Ministry of Education and Sports on August 11 has invited All Nepal National Independent Students' Union-Revolutionary (ANNISU-R) for a dialogue to find a lasting solution to all educational problems. The Ministry statement has also called on the Maoist students to stop violence in educational institutions, and stop abduction of teachers and students.

GOVERNMENT READY TO TACKLE MAOIST EMBARGO, IF IT HAPPENS

17. The Maoists' Nuwakot-Rasuwa-Sindhupalchok Unified District Committee stated in a press release that they would block all the entry points leading to Kathmandu Valley starting August 18 for a period of three weeks, and not allow any vehicle to operate on roads leading to Kathmandu. The Home Ministry spokesperson Gopendra Bahadur Pandey told the media on August 11 that the government had made "adequate" and "reliable" security arrangements to thwart the three-week economic embargo called by the Maoists. However, on August 12, the Maoists denied reports published in different newspapers regarding an "indefinite blockade" called by them from August 18. The Maoists' district people's committees of Dhading, Rasuwa and Nuwakot issued a press statement saying they have not called a blockade in those districts, and have appealed to civilians not to get terrified by such propaganda.

MAOISTS DEMAND INDUSTRIES CLOSE

18. All Nepal Trade Union Federation (ANTUF), affiliated to the CPN (Maoist), releasing a press statement on August 11, demanded dozens of industries including Hotel Soaltee, Surya Nepal Private Limited, and Bottlers Nepal to shut down from August 17 for an indefinite period or else the plant and safety of the workers would be at risk. The press release alleged that these industries are engaged in exploiting the workers and spying on them. The threats are also connected to some of the companies' non-payment of extortion demands.

19. The district committee of ANTUF has demanded through a press release that Surya Nepal Limited based in Bara District in central Terai shut down as of August 17. Saying that the ownership of Surya Nepal Limited, a tobacco company, lies with the main person of the present establishment, ANTUF alleged that Surya Nepal has discriminated and exploited the workers, and are constantly against the "Peoples' War" launched by the CPN (Maoist). The press release also requested that the employees and workers make an alternative arrangement. In response to the Maoist press release, Nepal Independent Laborers' Union (NILU), the official trade union of Surya Nepal Limited, appealed to the Maoists through a press statement to withdraw their demand of an indefinite strike, as it would directly affect the lives of more than 500 employees whose monthly wages are their only source of income. Also the workers of Bottlers Nepal Limited appealed to ANTUF to call off the indefinite closure of factories beginning on August 17.
